

Lawmakers Adjourn After Adding Billion For Atomic Weapons

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON — (AP) — The 82nd Congress added almost a billion dollars to an expanded atomic weapons program yesterday and then voted to quit for good.

Unless President Truman calls a special session, the law-making days of this Congress are over. The next—or 83rd—Congress with a lot of new faces convenes Jan. 5, 1953.

Finished At Sundown
Daylong negotiations on two money bills which had blocked adjournment plans Saturday paid off when a compromise was reached and the Senate and then the House approved the measures just before sundown.

The bills would provide: 1—$11,793,776,339 to finance atomic expansion, foreign aid and military construction throughout the world.

2—More than half a billion dollars for river, harbor and flood control projects.

With most Republicans attending the GOP national convention in Chicago and many Democrats out of town, only a handful of legislators were on hand when Congress adjourned. The House quit at 5:28 p. m. (EST), the Senate at 5:41 p. m.

Republicans Missing
During the final day Democrats did not take advantage of their numerical superiority. Leaders said all actions were fully agreed on by absent GOP leaders either in advance or by long distance telephone calls.

In the House were about 60 Democrats, 7 Republicans; in the Senate 11 Democrats and two Republicans. The House has a total of 435 members (233 Democrats, 201 Republicans, one Independent) and the Senate 96 (50 Democrats and 46 Republicans).

Major controversy centered around the $11,793,776,339 supplemental money bill, which carries $2,898,800,000 for the atomic projects, $6,031,947,750 for foreign aid, and $2,140,000,000 for globe-circling military construction projects.

When the Senate and House first deadlocked over the measure, arguing into the early hours Sunday morning, the bill provided only $1,450,000,000 in atomic funds. This was later boosted to two billion by the House as a compromise move but administration leaders in the Senate insisted on more.

Spending Curb Offset
The original bill also contained a rider that many—including the President—interpreted as barring the Atomic Energy Commission from starting any projects it didn't have the money to complete.

As finally passed, the spending curbs was retained in the bill. But opponents of the rider said its effect was offset by the additional $898,000,000 voted yesterday for the atomic commission.

AEC chairman Gordon Dean agreed. He wrote Democratic leader McFarland of Arizona that "we could proceed (with our program) under a bill which appropriated such a sum ($2,898,800,000 total)."

Living Costs Hit All-Time High; Could Go Higher

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The cost of living probably is at an all-time high today. And it could go higher.

This was indicated by a series of government reports yesterday which said:

1. Food prices went up three-tenths of one per cent in June—to a point 14 per cent higher than just before the Korean war—Mainly because of grocery and meat price increases.

2. The next overall cost-of-living index due in about three weeks is expected to show another climb because rents are rising. The last index on May 15 was only one-tenth of a point below the record.

3. Wholesale prices were unchanged for the week ended July 1, indicating the decline during the past few weeks is leveling off.

Mac Arthur Sounds GOP Keynote To Oust Blundering Democrats

By WARREN ROGERS Jr.
CHICAGO — (AP)—Old Soldier Douglas MacArthur, amid a canonade of applause, blistered the Democrats as a blundering "war party" and rallied yelling Republicans last night to a "crusade" to rout them from office.

The five-star general's keynote address knifed through the strife stirred by the Taft-Eisenhower battle for the presidential nomination. It united the packed convention hall in a standing ovation as it bit sharply at the Truman administration's policies.

The 57-minute speech, punctuated 73 times by handclapping and roars, formally plotted a non-partisan course in the nomination battle between Gen. Dwight D.

Eisenhower and Sen. Robert Taft.

Schemers Run Country
MacArthur, who backs Taft and who has been mentioned as a possible vice-presidential running mate for the Ohioan, said:

1. The Democratic party has a noble heritage but has been captured by schemers leading the country toward "the socialistic regimentation of a totalitarian

Convicts Clean Up Riot Damage

GUELPH, Ont. — (AP)—Bedded down in the open and reduced to bread-and-milk rations, 900-odd prisoners today helped to clean up the damage they wrought in the $200,000 weekend riot at the Ontario reformatory.

The last of the rioters surrendered yesterday, giving up the knives, pieces of lead pipe and other makeshift weapons they had brandished during the 12-hour disturbance Saturday night.

Ten men accused of leading the riot gave themselves up yesterday. They stepped out of the compound ranks after their names were called by the prison superintendent. They were quickly marched to cells.

Prison officials said charges of assault, threatening and unlawful assembly may be laid against the ringleaders.

Prisoners in the outside compounds were searched—20 at a time—for weapons yesterday. The search yielded a small harvest of razor blades, wrenches, knives and keys.

Meanwhile Premier Frost called for punishment of the riot leaders without making them heroes. He said they will receive "justice" tempered with understanding, but said ringleaders must be penalized.

Political Riots Kill Four, Injure 200 In Mexican Cities

MEXICO CITY — (AP)—Yesterday's political riots claimed a fourth life today as soldiers and police patrolled the streets of Mexico City.

All roads leading to this capital city were blocked. Police said the number of persons under arrest had reached 400, compared with 300 yesterday.

Three were killed in the riots and a fourth rioter, not identified, died today of his injuries. Estimates of the number of injured varied from 65 to 200. Police declined to report on the dead and injured.

Similar outbreaks were reported in other Mexican cities. All apparently were quelled quickly, however, and there were no indications of any deaths or injuries.

More To Come
Further outbreaks were feared today. Government sources said last night's riots were only the curtain-raiser to a larger uprising by supporters of anti-government candidates running far behind in the counting of votes from Sunday's presidential elections.

Sporadic fighting continued in the tense capital city until early today after three major clashes between police and soldiers and supporters of the chief opposition candidate.

The disorders ended the political peace which had reigned since the polling began and which had led many Mexicans to congratulate themselves on their country's first modern election without violence.

Although there were only four known dead, official sources estimated the toll might reach 15. Thirty-two of the injured were listed in serious condition.

Running Far Behind
The rioting began last night when police attempted to break up a "victory celebration" called by supporters of Gen. Miguel Henriquez Guzman. He is running far behind the government candidate, Adolfo Ruiz Cortines, in unofficial returns on the two-thirds of Sunday's vote so far reported.

Despite Henriquez' claims, victory in the election appeared going overwhelmingly to Cortines. Unofficial and preliminary figures gave him a lead of 2,009,370 to Henriquez' 187,615, with one-third of the vote still to be reported.

Communists Use 14 Tanks In Raid

SEOUL, Korea — (AP)—Fourteen Communist tanks—the heaviest concentration of Red armor in a month—supported a probing attack last night by a Chinese company against United Nations positions on the Korean central front.

About 200 Chinese were thrown back in the one-hour fight which closed to hand-to-hand combat. Allied troops counted 39 Reds killed and estimated 30 others died in the battle.

The tanks and Communist artillery pounded U. N. positions along the Nam river valley in the Kum-sung area with 1.570 shells.

U. N. troops hitting a Communist-held hill on the central front were repulsed by 200 Chinese using automatic weapons, artillery, mortars and a flame thrower.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said nine Communist troop bunkers were destroyed or damaged by warplanes in close support attacks. Other fighter bombers destroyed 10 supply buildings, nine vehicles and two supply revetments.

Retailers Balk Parking Change

A group of Ludington Street retail merchants showed their unanimous opposition yesterday to a proposed changeover to parallel parking on the city business section's main street.

Their disfavor with the parking plan advocated by the Safety Council was based, they said, on their general opinion that no need for a change exists now and that the loss of parking spaces in the projected conversion does not make parallel parking advisable.

These facts emerged from a special meeting of the businessmen called yesterday to get the attitude of retail merchants of the Chamber of Commerce to a proposal of the Safety Council that the city experiment with parallel parking on main street.

Plan Considered Safer

The Council maintains that parallel parking on Ludington Street will result in great public safety.

Members of the Council who were invited to yesterday's merchants' meeting told Chamber members that the parking plan will provide two lanes of traffic on both sides of the center line, achieve a more even flow of traffic on the street, and contribute to safer driving. A total of 35 of 112 Ludington Street traffic accidents since Jan. 1, 1952 are directly accountable to the present parking system, safety director Glen S. Leonard pointed out to the group.

In reply to that statistic, members of the Chamber stated that they were unable to see how parallel parking will necessarily eliminate the number of accidents on Ludington. They held that the system might only exchange one hazard for another, arguing that where formerly dented fenders were a common damage on the street, the new system could relocate collision damages to the car's grill and rear portion.

Final Decision Coming

They cited the danger to the driver who will disembark from his car on the left side and in the lane of traffic.

"Thirty five minor accidents are preferable to one death on Ludington Street," the merchants maintained.

After presentation of the Council's viewpoint and ensuing discussion of the plan by the group, chairman Robert Mosenfelder called for a show of hands on the issue of parallel parking.

The 21 merchants indicated unanimous disapproval of the plan and of the proposed experiment.

The results of the meeting will be taken by Safety Council chairman, Mrs. Oliver Fuller, to a meeting of the Council next week. Final decision on their recommended experiment will be reached then.

Republicans Seeking To Destroy Security, Charges Sen. Moody

Sen. Blair Moody and his comely wife, Ruth, combined a vacation visit to Escanaba with the senator's election campaign this morning, attending a breakfast in their honor at the House of Representatives. Approximately 50 Democratic leaders and representatives of organized labor attended the affair.

In a speech highlighting the breakfast program, Sen. Moody charged that the Republicans are seeking to destroy the mutual security program promoted by Sen. Moody's predecessor, the late Sen. Arthur Vandenberg.

"Michigan Republicans in the House of Representatives voted unanimously to chop the mutual security program $600 millions below the level regarded by Gen. Eisenhower as the minimum essential for security," Sen. Moody said.

"When the mutual security bill came to a vote, even with the cut in appropriations, all but two of the Michigan Republicans voted to kill the entire program."

Predicts Straits Bridge

Sen. Moody contended that the leading Republican presidential candidates, Sen. Taft and Gen. Eisenhower, have disqualified each other to hold presidential office. He said that Gen. Eisenhower's charges of isolationism against Sen. Taft has disqualified Taft and that Sen. Taft's charges that Gen. Eisenhower is unfamiliar with domestic problems likewise has disqualified Eisenhower.

The speaker predicted that the Straits of Mackinac bridge will become a reality, with the federal government, through the RFC, providing the necessary financing by a loan to be liquidated through bridge tolls.

Well, it won't be long before school starts. How will the children from the north end get to school in the cold and rainy weather? The people from the north end have no transportation to the shopping center or to the high school or the hospital. The teachers will have a large absentee list. But, folks, let's remember that Escanaba has many big conventions and many big boats that dock here. What do these people think when they ask, "Where is your transportation?" There should be a sign at the end of Ludington Street stating that in this berg you either own a car, call a cab, or use your own two legs and go on your own power. It's a shame that a city with a big population has no means of transportation.

Well, I guess we must face the true facts, Escanaba has a planning commission we don't need and should put in a transportation committee, something that we do need. Let's put the buses back on the street cars. We don't hear anything from our city council on Escanaba's city transportation. Maybe our city council buried it. Could be it's not fair to the people, or do they want to drive people away from here and have a

Two Ore Boats Will Load Here

A temporary resumption of operations at Escanaba's steel strike-affected ore docks brought about 20 dock employees back to their jobs today.

The recalled employees, including dock workers and some clerks, reported early this morning to load two ore carriers in a two-day renewal of shipping activities, according to docks agent L. A. McMillan.

The Str. Munising arrived at 7 a. m. today and is slated to clear this afternoon, while the Str. Harry Yates is due to dock at noon tomorrow.

Ore In Over Weekend
The carriers will be loaded with ore brought in 271 cars over the weekend from open pit mines in Iron Mountain, the only mines in the Upper Peninsula not totally inactive.

The carriers will take the ore to a Toledo, O., firm not involved in the steel strike.

The temporary resumption of partial operation here does not indicate a break in the shipping picture, according to McMillan.

"After these boats leave, there are no prospects of more shipping," he said.

Three ore carriers are still stranded at the Escanaba C&NW docks with loaded holds. The boats, Strs. Chisholm, G. R. Fink and L. W. Hill, are awaiting orders to proceed to an unloading point.

Shipping Volume Low

The last to arrive here, on June 17, was the Chisholm. The others have been here since June 9 (the Fink) and since June 12 (the Hill).

The steel strike has caused shipping from the port of Escanaba to fall far behind the volume loaded here to this time last year.

"Our total shipping thus far is about 1,110,000 tons over the volume through the first week of July, 1951," McMillan stated.

A record was set last year in ore shipping at the local docks. It was expected that this year would rival that peak season in volume shipped from the port of Escanaba.

Rights Of Americans Discussed In Kiwanis Talk By Judge Miller

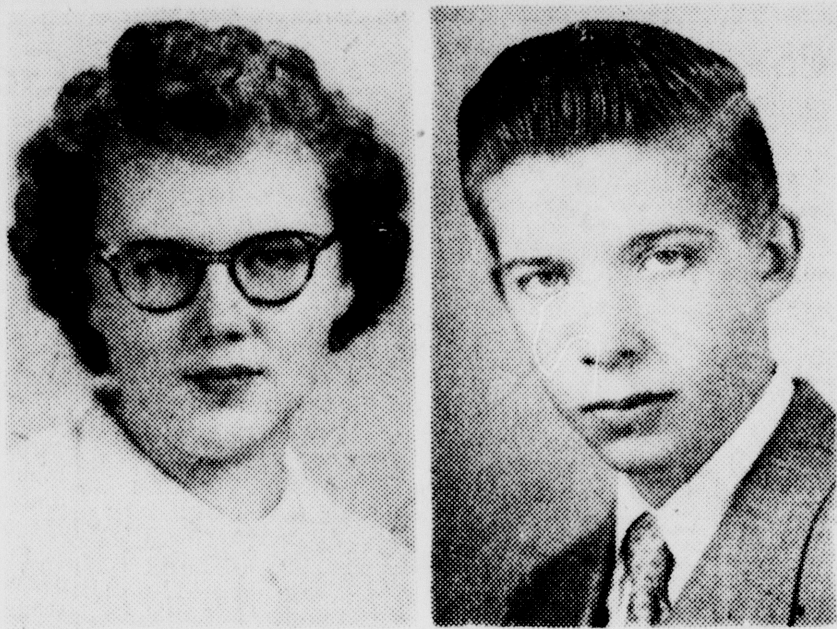

Our rights as American citizens gain strength in the degree that we respect the rights of others, probate judge William J. Miller told the Escanaba Kiwanis club Monday in an address covering the history and application of the Bill of Rights amendments to the United States Constitution.

Judge Miller traced back steps in America's freedom, starting with the revolt against King George, down through the adoption of the Articles of Federation of the original states, the Declaration of Independence, and approval of the Constitution after states had been assured of a Bill of Rights.

"It is for us to determine what we want our government to be," Judge Miller declared, as he summed up the rights of petition and redress to adjust any wrongs in government. The speaker discussed freedom of religion and the controversy over use of public funds for religious education. Under freedom of speech, he said Congressional immunity was sometimes abused to cause injury to the rights of others.

Judge Miller was introduced by Rudolph Erickson, club president.

Expert Lauds County Resorts

Tourist and resort accommodations in Delta County are the best ever, reported C. A. Gunn, Michigan State College extension specialist on resort buildings and grounds, while on a visit here recently.

"Today, more travelers and vacationists are finding the advantages of touring and resorting in Michigan," states Gunn. "They are also more discriminating and expect more conveniences and greater service each year. Alert operators of accommodations are keeping abreast of the times and are including better bathrooms, better lighting, and more attractive rooms. Exterior and interior finishes of older facilities are bright and clean and reflect the desire of many operators to meet new competition."

Some of the aspects of the business for which Mr. Gunn gave recommendations were: the location and planning of a motel; the rearrangement of existing cottages and location of new ones to improve a resort layout; suggestions on exterior finishing; and, the arrangement of cabins and cottages on a new site to be developed. Considerable time was spent with the officials of the American Playground Device Company at Nahma, inspecting the area and making recommendations for future tourist and resort development there.

Persons who wish to obtain guidance on problems of planning and building tourist and resort accommodations should contact J. L. Heiman, county agricultural agent for bulletins that are available through his office. For example, circular R-302, "Planning Better Overnight Accommodations," is a 24-page booklet filled with ideas on proper location, site selection and site development. It is designed to be of help to those who are building new or remodeling old overnight accommodations.

Circular R-304, "Planning Better Vacation Accommodations," contains similar guidance for lakeshore and longer-stay facilities. It is of interest to those who now have cottages or resorts or contemplate building such facilities. It also includes suggested building plans as well as eight typical layouts of resorts.

Those who wish to obtain copies of these and other educational bulletins that are of help to tourist and resort operators should contact J. L. Heiman, county agricultural agent in Escanaba Court House.

Harnischfeger Welder Plant Operations Are Explained By Fuller

The establishment and development of the Harnischfeger welder plant on Stephenson avenue were traced and its productive scope explained by Oliver Fuller, plant superintendent, at the regular luncheon meeting of the Escanaba Rotary club in the Delta hotel yesterday.

Explaining the science of welding itself and the types of welding machines being produced here, Fuller said that in addition to the AC and DC industrial type welders, the Escanaba plant next month will begin turning out a combination rectifier type of welder having some of the features of each of the AC and DC models and designed particularly for joining hard-to-weld steel.

Because it has a supply of farm welders in stock now, the plant is not producing that type at present, but it is equipped to do so. The plant was originally laid out for production of only the farm welder, he explained, but since has expanded considerably, its floor space being increased from 30,000 to 50,000 square feet and its personnel from seven to 175.

An Independent Plant

Fuller was introduced by Howard Timms, general manager of Harnischfeger operations in Escanaba, who outlined the organizational setup here.

"The welder plant is an independent plant and not a department of the truck crane plant," Timms said. "They follow the same general policies of Harnischfeger, of course, but the welder plant is quite independent and Fuller functions not only as manager but as his own chief tool designer, production manager and personnel supervisor."

Timms was introduced by James Degnan, acting program chairman. "Welding is simply the union of metal through the use of localized heat," Fuller said. "Soldering is a form of welding at low temperatures. Brazing is another form at a higher temperature, and arc welding is welding at a very high temperature." He defined the difference between spot welding and arc welding as a difference in pressure. Spot requires pressure, and arc welding does not require pressure.

Bought Swiss Patent

Fuller told his audience that H. nischfeger moved ahead fast in the welding field with the buying of a Swiss patent in 1946 that proved to be an effective means of controlling the AC arc welder. Previously, the great difficulty had been in placing and controlling the heat in as simple a means as possible.

At the outset, the local plant produced only 15 welders a day, but now it can turn out 40 farm welders, 15 to 20 industrial type and 25 of 200 ampere power.

"We make well over three quarters of the parts for our machines from raw materials," Fuller explained. "Basically, the welder is made of two thirds steel and one third copper."

Pointing out that 2,000 farm welders are purchased a month in the United States from all producers of such machines, the speaker added that the export business is great. He said shipyards and large manufacturing plants had great use for industrial type welders and that Harnischfeger orders went to such countries as Ecuador, Cuba, South Africa, Turkey, Brazil, Pakistan, Chile, Belgian Congo, Norway, Iceland, India and elsewhere throughout the world.

'Made In Escanaba'

"And every crate that goes to such countries is clearly marked, 'Made In Escanaba,'" he concluded.

Prior to Fuller's address, Dr. Roy Johnson, the club's retiring president, thanked officers, directors and members for their help during his term of office concluding July 1, and Nevin J. Reynolds, incoming president, commended the former for his work with the Escanaba Rotary club.

"You have set a high standard, and we will need your continued support to maintain that standard throughout the coming year," Reynolds said. Dr. Johnson was awarded the past president's pin by Reynolds.

The club's next meeting will be held at 12:15 p. m. Monday, July 14, at Camp Harstad, its camp for crippled children on M-35.

Manistique Man, George C. Bratschi, Found Dead At Home

MANISTIQUE—George C. Bratschi, 65, 241 N. 2nd St., was found dead Monday afternoon in his home. His body was found at 4 p. m. by his son, Gary, 11. He had been dead only a few hours, according to Dr. E. J. Brenner, who pronounced him dead and called the police. Death was caused by hanging.

The death was investigated by Coroner Robert Broulliere and city officer Roy Anderson, and city police officers, George Danko and Lloyd Gray.

Bratschi had been employed for many years by the Michigan Dimension Co., which suspended operations several weeks ago. This was believed to be part of the cause of his depression. He is survived by his son, Gary, two step-sons, and three sisters.

The body was taken to the Mesnier-Broulliere Funeral Home. The funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Michigan's Rioting Convicts Are At It Again At Jackson

MICHIGAN'S rebellious convicts are at it again. Rioting prisoners at Jackson penitentiary grabbed off two guards as hostages Sunday night and wrecked their cell block before they were finally brought under control.

In the current issue of Collier's magazine Dr. Vernon Fox, the deputy warden who was fired after the April outbreak, tells how he broke the riot in that big uprising. It was Dr. Fox, you remember, who broadcast a message of congratulations to the psychopathic leaders of the April revolt.

The repeat performance of the prison rebels at Jackson Sunday night is a logical aftermath of the surrender by prison officials in April, which culminated with a steak dinner and ice cream for the rebels.

Once again the prisoners made demands upon the officials and once again the prison leaders have agreed to the demands.

How in heaven can anyone believe that prison rioting will be stopped when every-time the convicts go berserk and destroy property, they gain bargaining power?

It's about time some new strategy was adopted to combat the prison riots. The taxpayers of Michigan are not happy

Material Deficits Offers Real Danger

A commission named by the President to study American and world raw materials problems predicts that by 1975 we will be importing about one-fifth of all our materials requirements.

That is only one striking statement in a long list set forth by the commission in a report which includes 70 specific recommendations for the nation's industrial future. What this carefully prepared document tells us is this:

1—The United States is now a raw-materials-deficit nation and will become more so as our population rises and industry expands. We must import to live.

2—Shortages of many items already are developing. While generally these are not yet grave deficiencies, they mean we are having to probe deeper into the rock and use more man-hours of labor to get the raw stuff out. Thus mounting cost is more of a problem now than actual depletion.

3—If we are not to endanger our security or our living standards, we shall have to attend seriously to measures that will improve our raw material position both domestically and with friendly nations which help supply us.

Naturally, a number of things could upset the most expertly projected forecast of industrial needs. One—war—the commission takes full cognizance of. War, with its colossal demands for materials, alters the outlook swiftly and radically.

A second hazard is technological change. Who, in 1925, could have foreseen the huge growth of the chemical industry by 1950, with emphasis on oil by-products, synthetic fabrics, and plastics? Who could have guessed about atomic energy? Yet these things and many another technical advance have vastly re-shaped the U. S. materials situation in this age.

In this development lies one of our greatest hopes for security and well-being. The commission, in its recommendations, wisely stresses that we must try to get more out of the things we have, and find substitutes at home for some of the things that are running short.

The Doctor Says ... Essential To Life, Salt Has Ill Effects In Some Diseases

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

In some parts of the world salt—that is the kind that makes up ordinary table salt—is in short supply, and is considered very valuable indeed. This is for the simple reason that salt or sodium chloride, is necessary to maintain life.

The salt is kept in a constant proportion in the blood and tissues by a wonderful system of balance, and the amount of salt present in food or added in cooking or on the table is usually just about enough to make up for that which is lost.

More sodium chloride is lost from the body than is taken in, when there is heavy perspiration for a prolonged period of time. This occurs in certain industrial occupations, in hot weather and when there is heavy physical exertion.

Salt tablets or the addition of small amounts of sodium chloride to the drinking water may be used to replace an excessive loss of sodium chloride of this type. In some industries workers are encouraged to take a salt tablet with each drink of water, though this should not be done by those who have certain kinds of diseases.

In certain diseases the amount of salt taken into the body has to be limited. Too much salt either has a bad effect on the diseased organs or holds an excessive amount of water in the tissues of the body, thus causing the accumulation of fluid in the legs or abdomen.

Under such circumstances, the excess salt is not eliminated, normally but stays in the tissues. In order to maintain a constant balance between the sodium chloride and water in the tissues, excess water is also retained.

REDUCE SALT IN DIET

For this reason, the physician may reduce the salt in the diet of persons with certain kinds of heart disease, kidney disease or diseases of the blood vessels. There are some other conditions, like Addison's disease, in which the use of sodium chloride has to be strictly regulated.

A great deal of table salt now has a little iodine mixed in. This iodized salt has done a great deal to reduce the frequency of goiter, and extensive studies have not revealed any harmful effects. Truly, the importance of salt to human beings cannot be exaggerated.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

CHICAGO—There have been two important changes in the two leading Republican candidates in recent years.

Eisenhower started out as a liberal and has become more conservative, while Taft started out as a conservative and has become more liberal. Today on domestic policy the two men are not too far apart, though if anything Taft might be a little to the left of Ike.

What happened to Eisenhower was that he came back to this country a military hero in 1946 with no understanding of economic or domestic problems and shortly thereafter was thrown into contact with the economic royalists of the United States—including Winthrop Aldrich of the Chase Bank, and Tom Watson of International Business Machines. Ike came from a poor farm family in Kansas that couldn't afford to send him to college. But from his New York friends he absorbed a completely new economic philosophy.

Taft, on the other hand, came from a family that put one grandfather in the Grant cabinet as secretary of war, sent another grandfather as ambassador to Russia, elected one President of the United States, and owns utility stocks, real estate, and a Cincinnati newspaper. It being almost impossible for Taft to move any farther to the right, he has moved, if anything, a little to the left.

IKE'S ECONOMIC CREED

When Eisenhower first came back to the United States after V-E day, he shocked some of his Republican friends. Talking with Russell Davenport of Life magazine, Gen. Ed Clark, John G. Bennett, and Russell Gorgan of the Glore-Forgan brokerage firm, Ike proposed the idea that business make no profit from defense contracts. This brought immediate protests.

"General," reminded Bennett, "you pulled the furniture down on your head once before at the F. Street Club when you proposed that idea, and you will do it again if you take that stand. It's contrary to the free-enterprise system."

Ike glowered.

"Yes," interposed broker Gorgan, "if John hadn't called you on that, I would have."

Eisenhower argued that a man's life is more important than corporate profits and when you ask a boy to sacrifice his life at war it's only fair to ask a corporation to sacrifice its profit.

"You can't sell that to the Republican party," his friends warned him. And in the end Ike agreed he would compromise by taking a stand for a "fair return on investments."

PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICAN?

And gradually, as the general has been exposed to his more conservative political friends, he has drifted away from his old position of a moderate liberal.

In 1948, when the Democrats were trying to persuade Ike to run on their ticket, Ike lunched with the late Harold Ickes who began his political life as a Roosevelt Bull-Moose. In reply to a question about his political views, Eisenhower told Ickes: "I think you know my brother Milton (a former agricultural official under Henry Wallace and now president of Penn State). My views are about the same as his. I am a progressive Republican."

But later, in New York, and under the steady drum-beat of political advisers who have urged Ike to out-Taft Taft, the general has shifted steadily toward the conservative side.

Taft, on the other hand, started out in the Senate against aid to education, against federal housing, and against the federal medical bill. He has shifted ground on all three. In the end he championed federal aid to education, wrote the public housing act which the real-estate lobby now brands Socialist, and for a time worked on a modified medical bill.

Taft, it is true, has shifted his position so many times on so many policies that it is hard to know exactly where he does stand. In a recent debate with Senator Kefauver, for instance, he had some kind words for the point 4 program of aid to underdeveloped areas.

"But why did you vote against it then?" asked Kefauver.

IKE AND TAFT DIFFERENCE

However, there is one basic policy on which Taft has never really shifted—foreign affairs. And that is the basic difference between the two leading Republican candidates.

There can be no question about Eisenhower's stand on foreign policy. Likewise there can be no question about Taft's. Despite what either may say, they are diametrically opposed. The record speaks for itself.

Japan's Bloody Riots Sparked By Communist-Inspired Koreans

By ELEANOR SPALDING

NEA Special Correspondent
TOKYO (NEA)—Thousands of Korean residents in Japan are serving as shock troops in a Communist drive to harass the Japanese police, annoy the Security Forces, discredit the United Nations Command, embarrass the Republic of Korea and make trouble for the government of Premier Shigeru Yoshida.

Japanese police have arrested 93 Koreans as a result of the Communist riot here on May Day, and they are looking for more. Koreans sparked the riot on May 31 in which two persons were killed. Japanese newspapers daily carry such headlines as:

"Korean extremists clash with police."

"Korean students tussle with Diet guards."

"Korean mob attacks tax office."

Behind the headlines is a story of intrigue, smuggling of dope and humans, official mismanagement, snarled diplomacy and international communism.

At least half of more than 600,000 Koreans in Japan are believed pro-Communist. Japanese authorities say there are only 1000 card holding Communists among them, but that 70 per cent favor North Korea in the war. A spokesman for the Republic of Korea insisted that there are only "a handful" of Korean Communists here. Other South Koreans, however, estimated that 100,000 are actively supporting the Communists.

The majority of Koreans residents in Japan are workers who came here before World War II because they could not earn a living in Korea. During the war, the Japanese brought thousands more to work in munitions plants.

Not one in a thousand Koreans could obtain Japanese citizenship. When the war ended, they formed the Korean League, then a non-Communist organization. Before the Korean war began, Communists gained control of the League, and occupation authorities ordered it abolished.

Since then, the Korean Communists have produced two new heads—the Korean People's Front and the Korean National Defense Committee. Both are illegal, and the Defense Committee is operating entirely underground, organized for an offensive. Its Molotov Cocktails have blasted police stations. Dynamite, guns and swords have turned up in police raids on its strongholds.

In contrast to Communist movements elsewhere, no single, outstanding leader has come to the fore. Japanese mention Kim Yung for the People's Front and Jung Hong Ku for the Defense Committee. Both have gone underground. Both are long-time residents of Japan rather than newcomers trained by the North Koreans.

Japanese authorities are convinced that Chinese Communists are masterminding Korean disturbances, and that Koreans are entering Japan through the British port of Hong Kong, and from the Chinese Red port of Tientsin.

But there is little they can prove. The Sea of Japan is full of fishing boats. It is easy to land at night and disappear into the mountains. The Japanese are counting on a big, new supply of Coast Guard ships from the TOKYO TOPIC is the rioting of Korean residents, many of whom have been smuggled into Japan. This is the scene during a three-hour brawl of Koreans and police near a Korean high school in Tokyo.

United States. Meanwhile, they can not adequately patrol the coastline.

Each month the Japanese are arresting from 300 to 500 Koreans as illegal entrants. Most of them are caught down around the island of Tsushima, half way between Pusan and the Japanese mainland. About 25 per cent of them are wives and children of Koreans legally in Japan. Many more are plain war refugees.

The spokesman for the Republic of Korea pointed out it was difficult for him to discuss the problem in view of the fact that Japan and the Republic of Korea are currently negotiating on the question of repatriation.

In May, Japan repatriated 410 Koreans. The Republic of Korea refused to accept 125 of them on the ground that they were legal residents of Japan. All had been convicted of crimes. The Japanese contend that they have the same right the United States exercises to expel undesirable aliens.

Meanwhile, Korean Communists have responded to threats of forceful repatriation with more violent demonstrations. Japanese cite this as evidence that they are living better than they ever did or could in Korea.

Non-Communist South Koreans simply remark that Communists know they would face trouble in South Korea. Hatred of Japanese authority, inspired during the war, has induced many a poor Korean to join Communist activities, they say.

There are two major obstacles to overcoming the Communist influence, both Japanese and South Koreans agree. One is growing dissatisfaction with the Government of Syngman Rhee. The other is the theory that, since United Nations forces stopped at the 38th Parallel, the only hope for uniting Korea lies in accepting Communist control.

Famed Flatiron At Mid-Century Mark

By SAUL PETT

AP Newfeatures Writer

NEW YORK—The once-famous Flatiron Building is observing its 50th birthday like a lonely old freak—too short to show up on today's skyline, too far downtown to have any glamor, too durable to excite alarmists any more.

Today, only a handful of tourists visit the 21-story building and most of them want to go up in the Flatiron only to take pictures of other taller buildings.

Today, nobody is afraid to walk on the Flatiron's side of the street. Years ago, many pedestrians stayed on the other side. They feared that a strong wind would topple the thin structure which is shaped, as one critic said in 1902, like a "stung piece of pie."

Good Evening ...

By ROBERT C. RUARK

NEW YORK — One of the great documentaries of the last war has just slid from the presses, or so it seems to me. It's called "Submarine" by Cmdr. Edward L. Beach, USN (Henry Holt, $3.50), and even this many years later the goose pimples still sprout on your neck when you read it.

"Submarine" is basically the story of U. S. S. Trigger, on which Cmdr. Beach served from ensign onward, but over-all it is a completely fascinating account of the entire silent service. We were not told much of submarines while the war was on, and not too much after, because of the highest possible security. I remember that in Pearl Harbor even the citations accompanying medals for heroism were intensely scanned for security breaches that could get a whole lot of people killed.

RUARK SUBSTITUTING

Clint Dunathan is on vacation and during his absence Robert Ruark will take over the space on the editorial page usually reserved for Dunathan's column.

Working briefly in press censorship at Makalapa on Oahu, during the last year of the war with Japan, I used to read battle reports from boats like Trigger and Harder and Tang and Wahoo, and even the dry, stilted navalese could not rob the account of its excitement.

TORPEDOED A DOCK

You would have reports, say, mentioning casually that Cmdr. Slade Cutter took his boat into a Jap harbor and watched a horse race through the periscope—or that, again in a Jap harbor, some skipper had casually torpedoed a dock, sending a whole busload of Jap sailors to heaven.

I remember one report of a guy who was claiming two transports sunk, and I recall he said he did not actually see the transports sink, but still claimed them. For, he said, "We sank the two destroyers who were picking up the survivors..."

There was the report I remember of Cmdr. Jim Blanchard and his exec, an old buddy of mine named Ben Adams, sinking a first-line Jap carrier of the Shokaku class with one torpedo hit into the gasoline stowage compartment. Mush Morton's Wahoo sank about everything the Japs owned with a fried egg on its masthead, before he turned up missing. Cmdr. Beach's Trigger—men felt sheepish indeed if they came back to Pearl Harbor without a broom tied on the masthead, denoting a clean sweep, and with nary a fish left to fire.

Our subs did just about everything. They sank other submarines. They knocked off whole convoys. They sank major fighting ships. They shot up harbors. They rescued downed fighters. They took Jap prisoners. They swept the seas so clean of Japanese shipping that in the end they were cruising around on the surface, shooting up sampans with machine guns, for laughs. Submarines alone so destroyed Japanese logistics that the Nips had nothing left to float men and supplies by the end of 1944.

FIERCE FIGHTING MEN

Submarines and submariners always fascinated me, who gets acute claustrophobia in an elevator. They were the fiercest fighting men I ever saw, a sort of dedicated bunch who thought that theirs was the only worthwhile arm of the war. They were picked men of the highest type, from messman to skipper, and every jack of every boat had to be able to do every job.

Their doings were silent, and their returns from patrol were uproarious. They came back pale and underweight and jump from depth-chargings, and they hit Honolulu with a torpedo's impact. No cop on Oahu could have been forced to throw a submariner into jail, no matter how drunk and disorderly he was acting in the town. They just scooped up the celebrators and lugged them back to their private headquarters in the Royal Hawaiian hotel.

Because these boys, still quivery from hangovers and butterflies, fluttering in their stomachs, would shove silently off, again soon, and a flock of them wouldn't be coming back. Three hundred and seventy-four officers and 3,313 enlisted men didn't come back.

Commander Beach has done a wonderful, simple and dramatic job in telling you about these men and the business they were in. It would be sheer blood-and-thunder except for the simplicity of why humor with which he spins his story, but the net result is that you wind up kind of proud of your kinkles in an old and serious war that was fought to the hilt, instead of in political piecemeal.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

DESCRIBING AN AUTHOR'S STYLE

Sometimes in your reading it will seem to you that an author or a speaker has become a little too flowery in his style, too high-sounding, or, to use an old-fashioned word, too highfalutin. If you do not wish to use such commonplace words as these to describe his style, here are a few others that will fit into your speech.

If style is just a little too greatly ornamented, decorated with a few more flowery adjectives than are needed, or if the writing or speech contains more description than is justified, you are safe in calling it ornate (or-NATE).

Of course, you may also use ornate to describe anything else that is highly decorated. The furnishings of a house may be ornate; a woman's hat, if elaborately adorned, is ornate; a dinner table may be ornate with silver and fine china.

A speaker or writer can very easily become too flowery. Such was the case of the preacher who wanted to tell of hardships in Ireland at a time when potato rot brought the people to the verge of famine. He spoke of the famine as caused by "the failure of that esculent on which it has pleased Divine Providence that the sustenance of a large part of the human race should depend." Such over-ornamentation may be called flamboyant (flam-BOY-unt). And also, may a woman's dress, the furnishings of a house, a street parade be flamboyant, if the decoration is too striking for good taste.

AS WE LIVE

Patience, Tact Are Needed With Elderly

By Elizabeth B. Hurlock, Ph.D.
When people reach old age, they need special handling. You cannot treat them as you would a younger person because their mental makeup is not that of a younger person. This is the problem that is bothering this young woman.

(Q) "My mother is a nervous, high-strung woman. Whenever my sister comes to see her, there is a heated argument. I admit our mother is usually wrong but my sister, even when she saw our mother was becoming upset and losing control of herself, wouldn't stop, even when my mother told her to. I can't seem to make my sister understand that she should end the arguments when she sees our mother getting so upset. My sister always has to have the last word. Am I right in saying that we should have patience with her?"

(A) Everyone who comes in contact with your mother or any elderly person should have patience. It takes more than that to handle them properly. You must have tact, understanding, and a high degree of kindness.

As people begin to go down hill physically, as they invariably do with advancing age, they go down hill mentally too. Their ability to reason, to remember, and to be logical in their thinking deteriorates.

Under such conditions, you really cannot argue with them. You must let them call, black white, if they want to do so. And under no circumstances should you contradict them and try to prove that white is white. This will only upset them and when they are upset, their thinking becomes even more muddled than before.

Try to persuade your sister that she is being both unkind and unfair when she engages in an argument with your mother. Her contacts should be a source of pleasure to the old lady.

When she is arguing with a younger person, your sister can have the last word if that is important to her and if it gives her satisfaction. But with a person your mother's age, it is a different story. Try to convince her that if she cannot stop arguments, the kindest thing she could do would be to give up her visits to your mother. As things now stand, her visits bring more harm than good.

If you have a personal problem, write Elizabeth Hurlock in care of this newspaper.

According to the Ptolemaic system, the earth was fixed at the center of the universe with the Sun, Moon, planets and stars all revolving around it in varying periods.

Death Claims William Embs

IRON RIVER—William J. Embs, 67, former prominently known Iron River attorney and a member of Coach Fielding Yost's "Point a Minute" football team at the University of Michigan, died recently in Kalamazoo after a lingering illness. He was the last surviving member of the Embs family of Escanaba.

Mr. Embs left Iron River in December, 1950, to join his daughters, Eleanor, Ethel and Marilyn, all married, in the Kalamazoo area. Mrs. Embs died about 10 years ago.

Born December 31, 1884, in Escanaba, Mr. Embs was graduated from the high school there, where, in 1913, he was married to Miss Elizabeth Franklin, of that city.

All-Western Guard

After completing his high school education, during which he was chosen all-state tackle, Mr. Embs attended the University of Michigan, where he was awarded his law degree. He was on the all-fresh football team and during his second year at the state university became a member of the varsity.

He played fullback on the last "Point a Minute" team under Coach Yost. As a climax to his football career, he was named all-Western guard.

While at Ann Arbor he also held the title of heavyweight wrestling champion.

After getting his law degree, Mr. Embs became employed as a hardwood flooring salesman for the I. Stephenson company, of Wells. While doing this work he also was a member of the Michigan Naval militia, serving first as master of arms, first class, and later as Ordnance officer and assistant navigating officer with a rank of ensign.

Came Here In 1912

While a member of the militia, he took part in a number of cruises on the Great Lakes. He was an ensign on the USS Yantic, a ship which had been in Perry's Arctic fleet at the time he discovered the North Pole.

Mr. Embs came to Iron River in 1912 to open his law office. He served as village attorney before Iron River became a city and also was judge of probate for six years. When he left Iron River several years ago he was circuit court commissioner.

During World War I he was first sergeant and drill master of the Iron River militia company and he also was captain of a volunteer military unit in Stambaugh. The funeral was held Tuesday in Kalamazoo.

Rich's Tea Room Is Broken Into

Rich's Tea Room was broken into and entered last night by a thief or thieves who smashed two pinball machines, stole the money box from one of them and took several lighters and $21.93 in change from a cash box.

Entrance was made through a window on the east side of the building. The building was broken into after 12 p. m. as the store was open until that time.

A 1946 Ford also was stolen from Glen Casswell's lot. The office was broken into and the key for the car taken from the office. Later this car was found abandoned at Flat Rock and another automobile was reported stolen from the Flat Rock area.

The second stolen car is a blue 1946 Ford, license MX-42-06, owned by George Budinger Sr. The Budinger car had to be pushed to get it started, indicating that at least two persons were involved in the theft.

Police theorize that the theft at Rich's and the car thefts are connected.

Living Costs Hit All Time High; Could Go Higher

clothing prices, and a slight upturn in consumer durable goods. The report said food prices would not change much unless crop prospects were altered.

However, the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), after making a special food survey of eight key cities on June 15, said yesterday food prices are climbing already.

Since food represents about a third of the total spending of the average city family, the rise is believed to have helped push cost of living to or beyond last winter's record.

It said increases in egg, fruit, vegetable, meat and fish prices were mainly responsible for the food rise between May 26 and June 15. Egg prices jumped most—4.7 per cent.

The special survey was made in Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Columbus, New York, Richmond, San Francisco and Washington.

The food price index on June 15 was 231.6, using the 1935-39 average as 100.

The cost-of-living index on May 15 stood at 189, one-tenth of a point below the 189.1 reached in December and January. The BLS said the next index is due in about three weeks, and is expected to climb because rents, a big item, are rising.

The BLS wholesale index for all commodities stood at 110.7, using the 1947-49 average as 100. Generally higher wholesale prices were reported for livestock, textiles and fibers. Grains and natural rubber were down.

For the month of May, net income of class one railroads was 55 million dollars compared with 51 million during the same month a year ago. Net income for the first five months of 1952 was estimated by the Association of American Railroads at 237 million dollars against 208 millions during a corresponding 1951 period.

Wall Street

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK (A) — Lower prices were the rule today in the stock market, but the pace of business was exceptionally slow.

There was no concentration of selling in any one major division and only a handful of individual issues came under moderate pressure.

Prices sagged from fractions to between 1 and 2 points, and there was a fair sprinkling of plus signs. Volume was on the light side, at the rate of less than a million shares for the entire day. Yesterday's total came to 1,080,000 shares.

Steels lost fractions, motors maintained a steady balance between small gains and losses, railroads were well mixed, oils were unchanged to lower, and utilities managed to hold steady. Chemicals showed some fairly good plus signs.

Atlantic Coast Line railroad was under fire and at one time lost between 2 and 3 points before it recovered a portion of the loss.

Lower stocks included Bethlehem Steel, Union Pacific, Texas Co., Caterpillar Tractor, American Smelting, and Dow Chemical. Sears Roebuck was ahead. The company reported an increase of 14.7 per cent in June sales and an increase of 7.6 per cent in sales for the first five months of this year over last, both totals at record highs. In May, sales were up 17 per cent from a year ago.

Platform About To Be Unveiled

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

CHICAGO (A) — The Republican party's 1952 campaign platform underwent final revision today and may be unveiled to the voters tomorrow.

Sen. Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado, chief architect of the GOP statement of principles, said he expects to have the completed version ready late today or tonight, a day behind schedule.

He planned to call the 106-member resolutions committee into closed-door session tomorrow to go over the entire platform and send it on to the convention for expected approval.

Millikin indicated he and his staff were within sight of their goal last night by taking the evening off to attend the convention session.

Yesterday Millikin and his aides got clearance from Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and other GOP presidential aspirants on the all-important foreign policy plank. Taft, who told newsmen he was not too keen about some points, asked to be shown the final draft when it is ready.

The plank, described as "internationalist" by its drafters, promises effective action to curb Communist aggression and to offer "hope of freedom" to peoples behind the Iron Curtain. It takes a belt at the Roosevelt-Truman handling of foreign affairs.

One issue still troubled—a split report on the Civil Rights stand. "We had two different proposals so we tossed away both of them and are trying to write a third," Millikin told reporters.

One Dead, 63 Injured As Mob Of Jap Reds Stage Riot In Nagoya

TOKYO (A) — Japanese police clashed with 1,000 rioting Communists Monday night in a 3½ hour pitched battle in Nagoya, Japan's third largest city.

Kyodo news agency reported one person was killed and at least 63 injured, including 56 policemen.

At one point the police fired into the mob of demonstrators as they hurled stones, wielded bamboo spears and tossed fire bombs. The riots started about 10 p. m. after a three hour demonstration at Osa baseball stadium where 7,000 turned out to welcome two Japanese who recently returned from a visit to Red China.

After the meeting approximately 1,000 students, Korean Reds and Communists poured out of the stadium and set fire to two automobiles with fire bombs. A melee took place when the mob ran headlong into about 1,000 police.

Brewer In Celebrated Canadian Kidnaping Dies Of Heart Attack

PORT STANLEY, Ont. (A) — John S. Labatt, brewer who figured in Canada's most celebrated kidnaping, died today following a heart attack. He was 72.

Labatt was kidnaped Aug. 14, 1934 near Sarnia, Ont., and held for $150,000 ransom. The money was never paid and he was released three days later.

Three men served penitentiary terms in connection with the kidnaping. Jack Bannon of Windsor and Russell Knowles of Detroit each was sentenced to 15 years. Michael McCordell, arrested at Crown Point, Ind., got a 12-year term.

David Meisner, Cincinnati bookmaker, got a 15-year sentence but was freed after McCordell confessed the kidnaping was carried out by himself, Bannon, Knowles and Albert Pegram. Pegram was never captured.

Lafayette Square is directly across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House.

Girls Injured As Cars Sideswipe

Marjorie Benoit, 39, E. Chicago, Ind., was released from Pine Crest Sanatorium where she was treated for shock suffered in a collision at 2:15 p. m. Monday. The car in which she was riding, driven by Irene Benoit, 19, also of E. Chicago, Ind., was sideswiped by a car driven by Louis W. Flath, 75, 907 S. 14th St., Escanaba, on U. S. 2, ¼ mile west of county road 557 in Harris Twp.

Flath made a left turn in front of the Benoit car and grazed the side of it. Flath was ticketed by state police for failure to yield the right of way.

MacArthur Gives GOP Keynote To Oust Blunderers

state. "2. The Republicans must enlist all kinds of Americans, who are "desperate for a plan which will revive hope," to win the November election.

MacArthur named neither Taft nor Eisenhower. But he hit at the administration's policy of Communist containment, which Eisenhower supports, and called for more air power, a Taft objective. Comments on the speech ran to adjectives like "wonderful" and "dramatic" and "thoughtful."

They included these: Sen. Taft—"Gen. Douglas MacArthur has dramatically stated the danger of the philosophy of big government, of its constantly increasing expenditures and taxation, its abuses of power, its dangerous threats to all liberty in the United States. . . . He formulated the affirmative program on which the Republican party can go forward to victory and resume progress under liberty and peace."

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, an Eisenhower backer—"A thoughtful statement of the problems the Democrats have built up. He knew what he was talking about as to Asia."

One dissent was registered by Rep. James Fulton of Pennsylvania, who is for Eisenhower. Fulton said the speech should have mentioned the United Nations. He said it "cast grave doubts on the usefulness of collective security as an international policy."

MacArthur, wearing civilian clothing, spoke slowly and deliberately. He leaned well forward into a thicket of microphones and, closely following his prepared text, leveled his heaviest blasts at the administration of President Truman, who fired him last year as United Nations commander in the Far East.

MacArthur said Truman's claim of inherent powers—which the Supreme Court held was unfounded in the steel industry seizure—was fictitious.

Spiritual Approach

The administration's foreign policy, he said, "practically invited Soviet dominance over the free peoples of Eastern Europe." This came about, he said, by the withdrawal of troops, yielding of control over atomic materials deposits, dismantling of German industrial plants and allowing shipments of war goods to the Soviet.

In the east, MacArthur said, the United States "proceeded with precipitate haste to divest themselves of our own military strength." This policy caused the loss to Communism of China, North Korea and the Kuriles, he said.

MacArthur's emotion-packed words lashed particularly at what he called the lack of the traditional will-to-win in Korea. "Korea stands today as the half-buried graveyard for countless American dead," he said. "We must not let it become as well a graveyard for American hope, American faith and American honor."

The speech leaned heavily toward the spiritual approach to the achievement of national strength. MacArthur said Americans have made the constitution

Gets Bruised Hip In Auto Mishap

Patricia Burton, 19, 806 Dakota Ave., Gladstone, suffered a bruised hip when thrown from a car driven by her brother, Robert, 18, in a collision on US-2-41, south of county road 517 in Wells Township, at 7 p. m. yesterday.

Burton told officers that as he came around the curve, he didn't see the oncoming car driven by Arthur Blake. Burton couldn't stop in time and hit the Blake car in the rear as he veered off into the bank on the right side of the road.

Miss Burton was treated by a local physician and then returned to her home. No one else was injured.

First Decision Over Delegates Goes To Taft

er in the Senate, prepared a plea for unity. He said the GOP must patch up party quarrels or "almost certainly go down to defeat in November."

Taft and Eisenhower themselves were visiting with delegates in their hotels—still trying to harvest more support.

Delegates Switch

There were signs that Eisenhower might be chipping away at the delegate strength Taft has counted on.

Two New York City delegates, who had been supporting Taft, announced they had decided to vote for Eisenhower.

Both sides were wooing Gov. Earl Warren and the 70-vote California delegation, now pledged to support Warren as a candidate.

At Warren's invitation, Taft and Harold Stassen, also bidding for the presidential nomination, met with the California delegation. Eisenhower is to talk with them tomorrow.

Taft and Stassen each told the Californians they hoped the party would remain united and that all factions would work to elect the presidential nominee, whoever he is.

Stassen said:

"If it should happen that your governor should receive that magic number—604—(votes required for nomination) I would support him and I am confident he would win in November."

But Stassen added in the next breath: "I am confident I could win in November."

Calls For Harmony

Eisenhower had breakfast with the 26-vote Missouri delegates and, in a little talk, appealed for harmony and for "kicking the Democrats so far November 4 that it'll take ten 20 years to get back."

He also met later with the Nebraska delegation and again appealed for unity.

A Nebraska delegate asked the general whether he had seen the foreign plank approved by a platform subcommittee.

Eisenhower said John Foster Dulles, GOP foreign policy expert, brought the proposed draft into his yesterday and that he (Eisenhower) felt it contained "all the essentials necessary to guide us x x x from the standpoint of enlightened self-interest of the United States."

The general added that the draft plank contains "lots of verbiage raking up the past, which I wouldn't want."

He said, however, that he never quarrels about details and is interested only in principles.

Eisenhower said he also had received a proposed draft of a plank on national security, and that he was "not so certain that I agree with that."

Platform Delayed

The platform-drafting committee hopes to deliver the document to the convention some time tomorrow, but may not have it ready until Thursday.

Not all of the 93 contested convention seats involve direct contests between Taft and Eisenhower supporters.

Of these, 68 from Georgia, Louisiana and Texas—including 50 Taft men—were barred from the convention yesterday from voting on any seating contests until their own status is decided finally.

Although Taft was beaten 658 to 548 on that issue by a coalition of Eisenhower's supporters and backers of other candidates, he bounced back to capture control of the convention's credentials committee. This group named former Rep. Ross Ritzley of Oklahoma, a Taft backer, as its chairman.

Some Eisenhower leaders feared the committee would bring back to the convention—possibly today—a report giving the Ohio senator the bulk of the contested delegates. They promised a bristling floor fight in that event.

The feuding factions forgot their differences temporarily last night to thunder approval of MacArthur's call for a GOP crusade against steering America into "a socialist or even later a Communist state."

Mamie Eisenhower Will Campaign With Hubby If He Wins

By RUTH COWAN

CHICAGO—(AP)—If Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower win the Republican presidential nomination his wife, Mamie, is going to hit the campaign trail with him.

"After all I've followed him for 36 years," she told a news conference with women reporters yesterday.

She and Eisenhower were married July 1, 1916—the day he got his silver bars as a first lieutenant in the Army.

She said she was "very happy, naturally" and "quite encouraged" over the balloting at the opening session of the Republican national convention on a proposed change in rules. Eisenhower backers scored a victory in that test.

"Are you confident he will win?" a reporter asked. Mrs. Eisenhower paused a moment and then answered: "I'm sure what is going to be is going to be right."

Mother Kept Score

Mrs. Eisenhower and her 73-year-old mother, Mrs. John Sheldon Doud of Denver, Colo., watched the opening session on television. "My mother kept the score," she said.

It wasn't a planned news conference in the formal sense. Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, co-chairman of the Citizens for Eisenhower, invited women reporters to a reception for Mrs. Eisenhower. It was to be just a party. But reporters and photographers got other ideas.

There was a catch-as-catch-can question-and-answer session which had Mrs. Eisenhower laughing. Here are some of the exchanges: "Is that one of the hats you got in Paris before you and the general came home?" "Yes."

It was a close-fitting pill-box style fashioned of what looked like black feather.

Bethany League Party Wednesday

The Luther League of Bethany Lutheran Church will meet Wednesday, July 9 at 6:30 p. m. for a splash party at the Escanaba City Beach. Leaguers should meet at the church at 6 so all will have rides.

Con Michaels is chairman. Others on the committee are: Ronald Magnuson, Marilyn Myers, Barbara Anderson and Loretta Swanson. A light lunch will follow the swimming party.

It is dangerous to overload electric circuits. Don't plug too many appliances such as grills or waffle irons into one circuit.

"What is it made of?"

"Straw."

"Is that a Paris suit?"

"No, got it in Washington."

3,000 Hand-Shakes

It was a two-piece suit of tiny black and gray circular cording. It had a nipped-in waist and circular skirt.

A reporter, recalling a reception yesterday at which the Eisenhowers received several thousand well-wishers, asked: "How do you feel after that hand-shaker?" "Fine," replied Mrs. Eisenhower.

"How many hands do you estimate you shook?"

"More than 3,000, but he (her husband) shook more than 5,000. He stayed longer than I did."

Two former Upper Peninsula high school athletic stars are among the 72 University of Wisconsin gridders invited out for Fall practice starting Sept. 3 at the Madison campus. Keith Lundin, who starred with the Iron County Steelers independent football team after graduation from Iron River High School, is listed as a candidate for an end position. Bob Gingrass, former Iron Mountain High School star, is a quarterback candidate. Lundin played football, basketball and baseball for Coach Harry Monson at Iron River.

Paul Vardigan, Escanaba softball commissioner, was impressed by the fine sportsmanship displayed by players on the Milwaukee Harnischfeger team. On several instances the visitors refrained from barreling into the base in an attempt to upset the fielder. "It pays off in the long run when you use consideration instead of brute strength," the Harnie manager told Vardigan. It must pay off for the Harnie team which has compiled a tremendous record of victories in the past 10 seasons.

After six straight Tri County League wins, the Stephenson team managed by Mike Strohl has dropped four games in a row. Three were by one-run margins. Included was a 3-2 defeat at the hands of Escanaba. Foster City edged the Steves 6-5 and Wallace nipped them 4-3.

American Legion Junior baseball tournament time is nearly with us again. The up-to-17-year-olds get into tournament action at the district level July 18, 19 and 20. The district tourney for Escanaba area teams will be at Menominee. Negaunee is host to the Upper Peninsula tournament July 25-26-27. The state championship tournament at Lansing will be held Aug. 1-2-3.

George Brown, Trenary hurler who starred in a relief role for the Bay de Noc all-stars against Manistique, is probably the oldest active pitcher in the Upper Peninsula. The cagey left-hander, No. 1 moundsman for second-place Trenary, is 48 years of age.

Set Tripleheader For Pony League

STANDINGS

Team	W.	L.
AFL Unions	2	1
Delta Hardware	2	1
Elks Club	2	1
Gauthiers	2	1
Ins. Association	1	2
Kiwanis Club	0	3

Escanaba's Memorial Field will be the scene for the formal opening of Pony League Baseball tomorrow evening with games at 5:30, 7:15 and 9:00. Appropriate ceremonies will be held after the first game with Mayor Robert Lemire and Pony League president Francis Rooney taking part.

Mayor Lemire will throw out the first ball and President Roney will outline the Pony League program and its objectives. Outside of the formalities, 90 boys in the 13 and 14 year old age group will display their diamond talents for the benefit of the fans and Cleveland Indian scouts who will be on hand to take in the triple-header.

In the opener at 5:30, the Elks Club will tangle with Insurance Association. After the completion of this contest at about 7:15, the opening night program will take place. The second game will follow immediately with Delta Hardware facing Kiwanis Club. The final game of the evening will be between Gauthiers and the AFL Unions entry.

Rec Baseball Players To Get Drill Sessions

Instruction and drill on baseball fundamentals will be given tomorrow morning at Webster and Royce Parks. Paul Vardigan will supervise the practice session at Royce at 9 o'clock and Pete Kutches will be in charge of drills at Webster from 10 o'clock in the morning until noon.

In the local recreation leagues the 8 to 10 year old group has been the most interesting. Westby's Service is undefeated and leads the league, largely on the strength of solid pitching by Richard Erickson. Budinger's Refrigeration and Kiddie Korner are tied for second place with two wins and 1 loss.

The only team which has failed to register a victory is the newly-organized Royce Park nine. They have signed up Jimmy Peterson as pitcher and Lowell Brazeau as catcher and are expected to give all the teams trouble with this newly-acquired battery.

In the 11 to 13 circuit, six clubs have entered and the strongest team at present is the Delta Frame nine of Flat Rock. Breitenbach's Grocery and Anderson and Bloom are the two teams which should give them the stiffest competition.

Major League Clubowners To Look Into Bonus Rule

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Major league clubowners, seeking to curb what Commissioner Ford Frick described as "wild and crazy spending" have agreed to appoint a committee to look into the controversial bonus rule.

Frick, speaking at the conclusion of yesterday's joint committee meeting on the eve of the All-Star game, said there was "unanimous feeling that some rule limiting outlandish payments to untied youngsters must eventually be written into the books."

Frick said a committee will be named shortly by the two league presidents, Will Harridge of the American and Warren Giles of the National, and George Trautman, head of the minor leagues. The committee will make its report at the Major-Minor winter league meetings in Phoenix, Ariz., next December.

Raps Bonus Rule

"Something has to be done and pretty quickly, too, about the wild and crazy spending for untied players who may never get into a big league game," Frick said. "I am in full sympathy with the owners who want to do something about the bonus rule."

Frick also gave approval to a global post-season good-will baseball tour by the Cleveland Indians and Brooklyn Dodgers, with the full consent of the state department.

Frick said the current rule limiting post-season barnstorming to 30 days following the end of the regular season, would be waived for such a venture.

The owners voted unanimously to refuse to limit the actions of Latin American natives who are "good enough" to play in the majors.

"The player representatives earlier had demanded of the owners that they stop the Latin in the majors from playing Winter league ball. The magnates did ask for more policing. From now on, a Cuban or Venezuelan team which wants to hire a player who is on a major league payroll must first request permission from his club before contacting him."

The representatives, through Fred Hutchinson, player agent of the American league, also asked the owners for a five-day holiday during the All-Star week, the boosting of the minimum salary from $5,000 to $6,000, the reduction from 10 years to eight of a period for which a player must agree to a waiver or option shift of his contract.

Baseball School Opens Tomorrow Under Cleveland Indians Scouts

School All-Stars Will Play Tri County Stars On Friday

The first big league baseball school in Escanaba's history opens here tomorrow morning under the guiding eye of Latimer (Laddie) Placek, director of Cleveland Indians scouts.

Upwards of 100 young ball players from throughout the Upper Peninsula are expected to take part in the three-day school which will reach a climax with an all-star game Friday.

The baseball school here marks the first appearance of the Cleveland team of the American League in the Upper Peninsula. Baseball schools and tryouts are conducted by the New York Giants and the Boston Braves in other communities in the U. P. each summer.

Three Workouts

Three workouts daily are planned for players enrolling in the school. Morning practice sessions will be held from 10 a. m. to noon. Afternoon workouts will be from 1 to 3:30. Evening workouts are being considered for players unable to attend the daytime sessions and will be held from 6 to 8. Players planning to attend the evening sessions are required to notify Art Petersen, city recreation director, at the recreation center, in advance.

Cleveland is interested in enrolling boys from 16 to 22 years of age, but exceptional players outside those age brackets are welcome to attend. Players are asked to bring uniforms and equipment to the practice sessions which will be held at the city baseball diamond, located adjacent to the Escanaba High School athletic stadium.

Players planning to attend the school need not make advance registration. Candidates will be registered at the daily workouts. The Cleveland scout director will have a staff of three or four assistants to help work with the young ball players.

Will Select Stars

From their performances in the three-day workouts, the Cleveland scouts will select the outstanding players who will go against an all-star team composed of players from the Tri County baseball league. The Tri County league stars will be named at a meeting in Hermansville tomorrow night.

Major league scouts have indicated an interest in a half-dozen ball players in this area and a number of minor league contracts are expected to be offered by the Indians at the conclusion of the school.

Preliminary arrangements for the school have been under the direction of Bert Carlson, former Rapid River resident now residing in Lower Michigan, who is a Cleveland representative.

Carlson, who arrived last week to lay plans for the school, has called Escanaba the hotbed of baseball in the Upper Peninsula and said the Cleveland officials are high in praise of the baseball program conducted here.

Main corps of the Cleveland scouting staff is expected to arrive here this evening.

Fain Now New Batting Leader

NEW YORK — (AP) — Ferris Fain of the Philadelphia Athletics, showing one of the most remarkable form reversals in recent years, is back on top in the American League batting race, a spot he held at the close of the 1951 season.

Going hitless in his first 21 trips to the plate this year, Fain is now batting .300 with 100 and 200 hits during the early weeks, unofficially traded to the New York Yankees.

Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers many times, Fain has battled his way back to hold the No. 1 position with a .336 average.

Ferris, with 12 hits in 28 times at bat, picked up 13 points during the pre-All-Star week to wrest the lead from Al Rosen, Cleveland third baseman, Rosen dropped to third with a .330 average as his record for the week showed only nine hits in 29 at bats. Records include games played Sunday, July 6.

Although he lost three points to 333, Stan Musial continues at his familiar top rung in the National League, nine points better than Chicago's Toby Atwell's .324. The St. Louis outfielder had a 9-for-29 week while Atwell, who moved up from fourth, showed an eight point improvement with eight bingles in 21 tries.

George Kell, another Red Soxer, is tied for fourth with Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees at .318.

Vic Wertz, slugging outfielder of the Detroit Tigers, is the AL's home run leader with 16.

Kocsis Will Not Defend Golf Title

CHARLEVOIX, Mich. — (AP) — The Stag Horn Cup, symbolic of the Michigan amateur golfing championship, is going to have a new home.

It's on its way here from the Royal Oak, where it had almost grown to the furniture in the Chuck Kocsis home. Kocsis had won it six times, two more than any other man, but he isn't defending his title this year.

At 39, Kocsis says, "I'm getting too old for the amateur. Playing 36 holes a day for three straight days is just too much golf—now."

Champ Enters Public Links

MIAMI, Fla. — (AP) — Defending champion Dave Stanley of Los Angeles will muscle into the act for the first time today as the National Public Links golf tournament—already sprinkled with thrills, heartbreaks and surprises—goes into the second round.

Stanley didn't have to qualify for this meeting of 200 stars of the American Municipal courses, and a bye spared him from yesterday's wild first round scramble.

He'll face his first man-to-man argument today from George Eluck of Windsor, Ont., the lone Canadian in the field. Eluck warmed up yesterday with a 4 and 3 victory over James L. Basko of Phoenix, Ariz.

Seventy-two hopefuls were sidelined yesterday in a day highlighted by the smashing 8 to 7 victory by Dul Pagan, strong-armed Palm Beach, Fla., fireman, over Gene Gregory of Memphis, Pagan, champion of the Florida amateurs and a pre-tournament favorite, lived up to expectations by shooting one-under-par golf for the rugged Miami Country Club course.

Stanley Bielak of Yonkers, N. Y., the 1950 champion, got an unexpected break when his opponent, Sino E. Stantoni of Hershey, Pa., turned up late at the first tee. Stantoni was penalized the first hole and Bielak went on to win 3 and 1.

Big Mouth, Laziness Get Tiger Prospect In Lots Of Trouble

BUFFALO — (AP) — Outfielder Russ Sullivan's big mouth has got him in as much trouble as what Manager Jack Tighe of the Buffalo Bisons says is laziness.

Sullivan, one of the outstanding minor league prospects of the Detroit Tigers, was fined $15 by Tighe for failing to run out an infield grounder. Sullivan angrily suggested Tighe double it. The manager obliged.

Tighe, meanwhile, announced that outfielder John (Bubba) Phillips, another outstanding rookie prospect, would leave the Bisons Aug. 1 for three weeks of National Guard training. Phillips expects a call to active army duty next winter.

DETROIT — (AP) — Three Detroit bowling teams today were awaiting a decision by the Wayne county circuit court on how many hours constitute a day — the decision could mean $1,000 for one of the teams.

A downtown Detroit bowling alley, Mark-Boyd Inc., asked for the court ruling in order to determine which of the three teams won its recent mixed doubles tournament.

The tournament opened last Nov. 1 and ran through May 31 of this year.

According to posted results, Marie Servial and her partner, Jerry Daley won the tournament and the $1,000 by scoring 1,350 points.

How Long Is A Day?

DETROIT — (AP) — Three Detroit bowling teams today were awaiting a decision by the Wayne county circuit court on how many hours constitute a day — the decision could mean $1,000 for one of the teams.

A downtown Detroit bowling alley, Mark-Boyd Inc., asked for the court ruling in order to determine which of the three teams won its recent mixed doubles tournament.

The tournament opened last Nov. 1 and ran through May 31 of this year.

According to posted results, Marie Servial and her partner, Jerry Daley won the tournament and the $1,000 by scoring 1,350 points.

Connie Powers and Larry Ellis Jr. finished second with 1,330 and Pat Fow and Walter C. Steffens came in third with 1,305.

The Servial-Daley team, according to tournament officials, started its final match at 11:30 p. m. on the last day of the meet. The team finished bowling at 12:30 a. m. on June 1.

The Powers-Ellis combination started its final match after the Servial-Daley team finished.

Miss Fow and her partner finished their last match on the final day of the tournament, bowling ahead of Miss Servial and Daley.

According to the bowling alley owners, Miss Powers and her partner have filed a protest asking disqualification for the Servial-Daley team on the grounds they did not complete their final match within the prescribed dates of the tournament.

The owners said they would also have to disqualify the Powers-Ellis team on the same grounds since the second place team did not complete its bowling on the last day of the meet.

The double disqualification would automatically make the third place team the tournament winners.

In their suit, the bowling alley operators stated that it "was generally accepted throughout the sport of bowling that an alley's day does not end at midnight, but rather at the same time the establishment closes for the night."

Detroit Lions Will TV Games

DETROIT — (AP) — The Detroit Lions will televise four of their six away-from-home games this season.

The Lions said today lack of coaxial cable facilities will probably prevent televising of the other two road games, at Green Bay Oct. 26 and Dallas Dec. 14.

Road games to be televised in the Detroit area are:

Sept. 28, San Francisco; Oct. 3, Los Angeles; Nov. 9, Pittsburgh; Nov. 23, Chicago Bears.

Van Patrick, broadcaster of Detroit Tiger baseball games, will describe Lions' games on radio and television. A brewery (Goebel) will sponsor the broadcast.

The Los Angeles game will begin at 8 p. m. PCT (11 p. m. Detroit time) and will run about two and a half hours. General Manager Nick Kerbawy said this will mark the first midnight football television broadcast on a trans-continental basis.

Kerbawy said the sponsor had not yet announced plans for out-state Michigan television. Last year several TV stations in Michigan besides Detroit handled the road games.

Savitt Opens Clay Court Tennis Play

CHICAGO — (AP) — Dick Savitt of Orange, N. J., second-ranked nationally, makes a delayed first-round appearance in the National Clay Courts Tennis Tourney today against a lad from Princeton.

Top-seeded Savitt, fresh from the Wimbledon net joust, takes on Earl Schulte, Princeton swinger from suburban Riverside, Ill. Only two other matches must be played to complete first-round competition in the week long meet at suburban River Forest Tennis Club.

Don Candy of Australia, top seeded among the foreign entrants, engages Ron Livingston of Los Angeles, and George Stemmer, Jr., of St. Louis faces Don Kreen of Wilmette, Ill.

Yesterday's opening round was paced by the No. 2 seeded contender, Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., who brushed aside Frank Bernard of Evanston, Ill., 6-2, 6-3.

An upset of sorts was recorded as Bob Perry of Los Angeles, runner-up in the recent NCAA tournament, was spilled by Bill Quillian, Seattle, Wash., youth. Perry was seeded eighth.

Charleston Fans Keeping Promise

(By The Associated Press)

Baseball fans of Charleston, W. Va., meant what they said when they pledged greater attendance for the erstwhile Mud Hens than Toledo, Ohio, gave that American Association club.

The Mud Hens, now the Charleston Senators, in nine home games have played before 42,059 patrons, just as many as watched the transposed brood at Toledo in 24 games.

Last night, a Charleston throng of 3,457 turned out for a twin bill and the Senators obliged with a double victory, beat the Columbus Red Birds, 2-0 and 3-0.

Gavilan TKOs Turner In 11 To Retain Title

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Kid Gavilan still is welterweight champion of the world and Gil Turner still rookie of the year. That's the situation today as the Cuban Kid looks for new worlds to conquer after his 11th round technical knock-out to win over 21-year-old Turner last night at Municipal Stadium.

Al Weill, international Boxing Club matchmaker, immediately went to work on a future schedule for the 147-pound champ. His managers are due to talk dates and opponents at the IBC offices in New York tomorrow.

Kid Gavilan

Davey Possible For

"Johnny Saxton, Billy Graham and Chuck Davey would be good opponents for Gavilan," said Weill. "We don't know yet what he wants to do. But they'd all draw good money for title bouts in the Garden in the Fall."

Harry Markson, IBC boxing director, agreed with Weill. There also is talk of a rematch with Turner—in a year or so.

"Turner is a better fighter than Graham or Johnny Bratton," said

Gavilan in his pigeon hole dressing room after the fight. "And as good as Bobby Dykes."

In case it slips your mind, Gavilan just got past Graham on a split decision in his first title defense.

Turner was running about even with Gavilan last night when he ran into that furious 11th round barrage. Both judges Charley Daggert and Lou Tress had it 5-5 after 10 rounds and referee Pete Tomasco had the Cuban out front, 6-4. The (AP) card showed Gavilan leading 5-4-1 going to the last round.

Hurt In Fifth

After setting a blazing early pace, Turner ran into trouble in the fifth when Gavilan hurt him with a flurry inspired by a patented bolo right. Turner was penalized the round by referee Tomasco for a low blow but it was only a formality. He won the round from here to Havana.

After the fifth, Turner slowed his furious pace. Gavilan, more sure of himself, was able to make the Philadelphia kid fight his fight. The Cuban champ took the lead only to have frantic flurries by Turner force him to bide his time.

In the 10th, it seemed Gavilan couldn't miss with a left hook. Time after time they thudded home on Turner's wide open jaw.

Still young Gil surged back with a round-ending flurry. But the end was in sight.

Rally Fails

Coming out for the 11th, Turner shot the works in one last-gasp effort. It failed. Driving home counter hooks, Gavilan smothered the rally. Pressing Turner against the ropes, he rattled punch after punch off Gil's chin as the youngster sagged on rubbery legs like Randy Turpin before his knock-out by Ray Robinson.

Retreating from certain disaster, Turner again was trapped on the ropes. This time Gavilan didn't let him get off the hook. He was absorbing heavy punishment that left his mouthpiece dangling from loose lips when referee Tomasco stopped it at 2:47 of the 11th.

Few in the crowd of 39,025 that paid a record welter gate of $269,677 disagreed although Turner, 11 to 5 underdog, had solid betting support from his home town. Turner even agreed that the ref was right. Only his manager, George Katz, objected.

Weight made no difference. Gavilan at 146 to Turner's 144½ was in his best condition in months. He had to be to take care of the buzz saw puncher from Philadelphia's "Strawberry Mansion" district who may yet become a champion.

But Mathias isn't a slouch in other sports either. In high school he was a track and football wonder and starred as well in basketball.

It was Mathias, now 6-2 and 200 pounds, who went 96 yards with a kickoff return against Southern California last fall for a touchdown that helped put Stanford in the Rose Bowl against Illinois.

The July 10-Aug. 3 games will be Mathias' last appearances as a decathlon athlete, he has said. Next fall, for the first time, he is going to give his full attention to football with the hope it will get him some pro offers.

Bible Chapter Not Here When Needed

RICHMOND, Va. — (AP) — The Rev. G. Houston Patterson of Bluefield, W. Va., found a chapter missing in the Bible—much to his embarrassment.

He was conducting the baccalaureate service for the graduating class of Union Theological Seminary. For several minutes, he thumbed the massive Bible in the pulpit while the audience waited and watched.

Finally, he said: "I will read the 23rd Psalm."

A bit red-faced, he then added: "I am reading this psalm today for a very special reason. It is one with which I hope you will never be confronted. I find myself with a Bible from which the 23rd chapter of St. Luke is unaccountably missing."

Call Meeting On School Plan

An open meeting will be held by the Hiawatha Township Board of Education at 8 p. m. tomorrow at the Heights school for the purpose of discussing the school bond issue, it is announced.

All township citizens interested in the new school plans are invited to be present.

A special election will be held on July 22 to permit voters to pass on the bond issue and a millage increase proposal.

The board is seeking approval of a bond issue of $85,000 to construct and equip a new school building. All qualified voters in the township are eligible to vote on the bond proposal.

Only taxpayers, however, are eligible to vote on the proposition of increasing millage to pay interest and retire principal on the bonds. It is proposed to increase millage 1.5 per cent of the total assessed valuation of the township for a period of 17 years.

The proposed new school building will be erected on a 17-acre site at the intersection of M-94 and the Indian Lake road. This is the county road which leads from M-94 to Indian Lake at Heltman's Resort.

The building will be a one-story structure of cinder blocks and brick. It will have four class rooms and space for storage, lavatories, hot lunch and a heating plant. Two of the class rooms will be separated by a movable partition which, when removed, will provide auditorium space.

17 Dog Owners Are Fined In Strict Enforcement Drive

Strict enforcement of the city dog ordinance, ordered last spring by the Manistique City Council, has resulted in the arrest and fining of 17 violators, it is disclosed in monthly reports of the local police department.

Nine of the violations were reported in May and eight in June. During June five dogs were impounded of which only one was deemed. The other four were disposed of. Six other canines were disposed of in June at the request of owners.

The June report also discloses that a total of 128 arrests were made as follows: Reckless driving, 5; speeding, 4; non-stop, 4; failure to have car under control, 4; failure to yield right of way, 1; leaving scene of accident, 1; parking violations, 101; drunk, 1; disorderly, 1; dog ordinance, 8; bicycle violations, 8.

A total of 58 courtesy tickets were issued.

Other activity of the city police department in June included 97 calls, 10 dogs disposed of, four doors found unlocked, and seven auto accidents investigated.

Total fines and costs paid to the city during the month was $371. In May fines and costs amounted to $393.

Increase in fines and cost collections has resulted from a new city traffic ordinance under which many traffic cases previously handled under state law are now being taken.

Tigers May Fail To Place Player In All-Star Lineup

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — The Detroit Tigers, fighting to avoid their first last place finish in the American league, today may come up with another unenviable "first" in the 19th annual major league all-star game.

Today may be the first All-Star game in which a Tiger player has failed to see action.

Big Vic Wertz has been named to the American league squad by Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees.

However, the personable outfielder was not slated to start — he appears destined to see action as a pinch hitter, if at all.

Home Run Leader

Wertz, currently leading the American league in home runs — he has 16 — placed second in fan balloting for the right field position. The Yankees' Hank Bauer won the position and Stengel has indicated he will use his own Mickey Mantle as the first line replacement. Under all star game rules, Bauer must play the first three innings.

In previous All-Star games the Tigers have placed at least one player in the starting line up.

In last year's game at Detroit's Briggs stadium, three Bengals were involved in the 8-3 American League loss to the National League. They were newly appointed Tiger Manager Fred Hutchinson, third baseman George Kell, now a Boston Red Sox player, and Wertz.

Wertz was also named to the 1949 squad which thumped the National leaguers 11-7.

Sports Roundup

By HAROLD CLAASSEN (For Gayle Talbot)

NEW YORK — (AP) — They are at it again—those fellows who must argue sports questions to which there are no precise answers. This time the debate revolves around young Bob Mathias and the ancient Jim Thorpe. Which is the greater athlete?

Four years ago at London, Mathias, only 17 and a high school athlete, won the Olympic decathlon title. In doing it he "bettered five marks Thorpe hung up in winning the event in 1912 and tied the Indian in a sixth. Thorpe was 24 at the time.

Last week Mathias, now a growing 21, won the Olympic decathlon tryouts again. This time he surpassed the Indian's marks in nine events—and compiled so many points he broke the U. S. record even before toeing the mark in the tenth.

Here are Thorpe's 1912 Olympic marks and Mathias' 1952 tryout figures:

	Thorpe	Mathias
100 meters	11.2"	10.8"
Broad jump	22 2.3"	23 5.25"
Shot put	45 5.45"	49 10 3/4"
400 meters	52.2"	50.8"
High jump	6 1.6"	6 2 3/4"
Discus	121 3.9"	157 11 3/4"
Pole vault	10 9.95"	12 3 3/4"
Javelin throw	149 11.2"	193 10 3/4"
1,500 meters	4:40.1"	4:55.3"
110-meter hurdles	15.6"	14.6"

At the Tulare trials Mathias piled up 7,825 points, wiping out his own national mark of 7,444 points.

Dan Ferris, national AAU secretary-treasurer who saw Thorpe at Stockholm and will see Mathias at Helsinki, says "You'd have to say Mathias was the better all-around decathlon man because of his record. But with modern training Thorpe probably would have been as good."

When it comes to other sports, you probably must give Thorpe the edge.

Old Jim, whose Olympic achievements were erased because he had professionalized himself by playing pro ball before going to Sweden, was an outstanding football player, reached the major league in baseball and excelled in basketball, lacrosse, tennis, handball, hockey, swimming and wrestling.

It was Thorpe who broke up a major league double no-hit game between Cincinnati and Chicago's Cubs in 1917 by beating out a bunt that scored the decisive run in the tenth.

But Mathias isn't a slouch in other sports either. In high school he was a track and football wonder and starred as well in basketball.

It was Mathias, now 6-2 and 200 pounds, who went 96 yards with a kickoff return against Southern California last fall for a touchdown that helped put Stanford in the Rose Bowl against Illinois.

The July 10-Aug. 3 games will be Mathias' last appearances as a decathlon athlete, he has said. Next fall, for the first time, he is going to give his full attention to football with the hope it will get him some pro offers.

Corseting Takes Lot Of Know-How

OMAHA, Neb. — (AP) — "Use your whole body, not just the wrists."

"Stiffen that elbow."

"Give it all you've got."

The above are not instructions for playing golf but for getting into a corset. The advice comes from experts—a school for corsetiers which met here recently. The experts, headed by Miss Betty Vincent, educational director for a foundation-wear concern, stressed a controlled elbow in the battle of the bulge.

Bingo And Beer Business Given Tips By Air Force

By VERN HAUGLAND

WASHINGTON—Play bingo sell sandwiches, watch the beer tap closely, dip ice cream deftly.

Those hints, the Air Force advised today, are a few ways clubs on military posts can make a profit without slot machines.

The clubs have had a tough time keeping out of the red and maintaining low prices since the "one-armed bandits" were banned from Federal property a year and a half ago.

The suggestions were detailed in a letter signed by Lt. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, acting Air Force chief of staff and being sent to Air Force officers' messes, non-commissioned and enlisted men's clubs around the world.

Beer and Cole Slaw

The letter said operation of bowling alleys, nurseries, golf courses, guests' quarters "and so forth, is desirable but not essential."

Bingo was pointed up as an entertainment that not only can be self supporting but can turn a neat profit. The Air Force recommended charging $1 a card before intermission, less afterward.

A 20-minute intermission was described as "a stimulant for bar sales."

And the letter said sandwich business is profitable "because of fast customer turnover and low percentage of waste." It also suggested:

"Potato salad or cole slaw served on the same plate with the sandwich at an additional charge of 5 cents or 10 cents is a profitable item and advisable."

Scraping The Suds

The Air Force advised dispassionately that "drawing a glass of beer properly is an art that can be mastered," as follows:

1. Open the tap handle completely and allow the beer to flow until the glass is two-thirds full.
2. Close the tap.
3. Allow the beer to settle and then repeat the process until the beer barely flows over the glass.
4. Remove excess foam from the top with a scraper. "Do not attempt to draw beer by opening the tap part of the way. This method causes excess foam."

The letter added:

"Profit can be regulated by size of glass and price per glass."

The letter said the most common loss on a soda fountain is caused by incorrect dipping of ice cream.

Ice Cream Dip Tips

"A gallon of ice cream should produce 58 to 62 dips using a No. 30 dipper; 47 to 51 dips using a No. 24 dipper, and 38 to 42 dips using a No. 20 dipper," the letter said.

It recommended the way to dip ice cream is as follows:

1. Keep the ice cream dipper in clean water, running if possible, shaking surplus water off dipper before dipping ice cream.
2. Grasp the dipper in the right hand with fingers around the metal shank, thumb braced on the gear cover.

3. Keep the wrist stiff. Draw the dipper around and across the surface of the ice cream. This keeps the top of the ice cream level in the can. Never dip into center or sides of the can.
4. Draw the dipper upward along the side of the can to cut off any surplus ice cream.
5. To release the ice cream from the dipper, retain the firm grip with the fingers and press the release lever with the thumb.
6. Use ice cream spade if necessary to push cream from sides of can. This will prevent crystallization."

For Bingo Boosting

The Air Force said a must for bingo is a good master of ceremonies who can keep the crowd interested in the game.

"Small door prizes must be given between games," the letter said. "One suggestion is prizes to those holding certain selected serial numbers of bingo cards."

The letter went into detail on what prizes to offer. It recommended 13 bingo games in an evening—one A-prize, two B-prizes and three C-prize games before intermission and the same number afterward, followed by the grand prize for the last game.

Prizes should consist of Class A—$50 to $100; Class B—$25 to $50; Class C—$10 to $25; grand prize—cash, a television set, radio or silver services.

The Air Force said "a cash build-up jackpot is a good drawing card, starting with eight numbers for strong bingo and building up one number and additional cash each week until it is won."

Walkie-Lookie TV Sets Are Planned

NEW YORK—(AP)—The political conventions at Chicago this summer are expected to afford a job for a new television device. It's a "walkie-lookie," next step up from the walkie-talkie.

Weighing only 46 pounds it is compact enough for one man to carry around and operate, much as he would an ordinary camera. The pictures being taken would be fed into the regular TV channels for relay.

Use of this gadget on the convention floor would enable the camera to get into spots impracticable for the larger and more cumbersome units.
